

THEMES RELATED TO THE BASE

We can finally clarify questions about Reality that cannot be answered with USEFUL words. These questions can be answered by useless words about the Base. The Universe, and its entire content, is eternal because it carries the message from the previous base to the subsequent base, so participating in the eternal bond.

The Universe is not eternal; as form, it cannot be (the string comes and goes), the forms that it utilizes in the manifestation of various horizons of events will come to an end. This theme will follow a peculiar course. OVERCOME THE DICHOTOMY. Hence the Universe is eternal and non-eternal. But if we want to see it as a “moment” (or LESS), IN THE TIMELESS ABSOLUTE IT WILL BE NEITHER ETERNAL NOR NON-ETERNAL.

The universe is surely finite at its most remote borders (as it comes forth from a common origin, a point). But as it borders with innumerable Universes, which are in turn infinitely correlated, it is also “infinite-correlated.”

We know that the universe is finite and infinite due to the simple dichotomy to be overcome. The seeker of spiritual realization who perceives the Base/Thusness/Emptiness, and therefore what has been said, exists due to all their interactions with the universe, in the universe, with the universe. Therefore they do not die, they exist in the Sublime Interaction.

On the contrary, the way the person was before is “dead” because, like all events which take place in the world of phenomena, they die to give life to the New. The New exists. That having been said, now another important dichotomy has been overcome. The seeker who had achieved realization exists and at the same time does not exist, in a marvelous BEING “AND” NON BEING. This leads us to a wonderful concept. If by living the BASE, Thusness, Emptiness, those individuals become confused (identified) and lose themselves by becoming identified (losing the “I,” the self, form etc.), then it is comprehensible that they neither exists nor do not exist, after... After what? The death...of who? (CAREFUL-this is a particular condition).

Forms come from the Base, the Base is the will of the Absolute. The illusory Self is identical to the illusory Body, and we have an identity that is necessary in order to experience freedom in form. When the self is free consciousness in its experience of form, separated in order to observe it, it diversifies itself. As it has overcome the stillness of what is, it becomes dynamic and frees itself from identification with the world of phenomena as related to its illusory body.

To such questions (to whomever may have asked them) there are no known answers (through there are useful words). Once the useless words (which are still to be experienced) have been found, the answers cannot be used until they have been experienced by someone. By whom? One, no one, a hundred thousand. Maybe this is the Truth of the NATURE in the Creation.
