

THE TEAR

Tearing the darkness in order to Illuminate

Who is the Only One that Can, if not the Absolute Tearing the veils of illusion. Who?

Tearing the mystery of being. Who?

The Darkness was torn and then there was Light.

This is the Act of Creation, which can only be Divine. The Act of the Eternal is timeless and remains Eternal. Those who live in the Act of the Creation are spread in its illusory time. The universe, Reality of the Absolute, for now the illusory dream of minds prey to the concatenation of the effects of the world of phenomena, must be reconstructed by the mind, thoughts, words. But is every phenomenon real when it is reconstructed by the mind? It is permeated by various seeds, hate/love, various plants and their opposites; plentiful fruits/experiences beautiful-bad-neutral. What roots does such a Plant have? What is its past? Where does it get its nourishment from? The sum is consciousness which oscillates, swerves, stops and begins again in an endless dance. How will it ever be possible, for a mind of this type, to proceed in its analysis of the journey to the Light and then to the “Threshold at the Tear”? We are not giving this mind the value of a virtue but... not that of being an error, either. It is the continuum – conscious, subconscious, unconscious, ultra-conscious – which maintains the sentient being connected to illusion.

This is the marvel of Freedom. It translates what is external, “re-organizes” it, reconstructs it, gives it another value, closes it inside the individual consciousness and makes of it a unique, separate, isolated utilization.

It seems that it narrates the “outside,” but it has become a different thing, to be used by another consciousness, which will translate that data into words in another subjective manner. That having been said, here is the word “Tear.” Do we want to play the above-mentioned illusory “game”? Do we want to continue to render words useful, obtain nourishment from them and then, satisfied, no longer seek the Ultimate Reality? Construct a subjective reality to be inserted in the mental cycle and then, filled up, satisfied, stop seeking within?

A certain number of malaises overcome through an “optimal” Philosophy to be taken in doses as mental well-being medicine? NO! NEVER! We need to travel the inner path (a saying which has been used over millennia, billions of times), go to the Source, seek the Spirit within you, find the Light the Lord Gave you, Enlighten yourself, Realize yourself, Go Through yourself! NEVER HAS ANYONE, by listening to words, even the words of enlightened beings, experienced the value that the other gave to them! And it will NEVER happen!

Why? Because then sentient beings would be deprived of their freedom to seek as they see fit. When a person says “so and so's words enlightened me,” it's ridiculous. A temporary mental conviction will never be a Reality, beyond the mind, beyond the intellect, beyond the idea of the “I,” the Self. Reality lies beyond everywhere we seek, beyond the Base, thus it must be experienced. It is that Border-Threshold that I call the Tear in order to avoid linking it to anything said in the world to date, so that it is not thrown into a soup of “knowledge” together with the same words which, utilized millions of times, became corrupted and generated CHAOS (which is an excellent aid to the vastness of freedom) to be determined in the Search of the Beyond.

Therefore, first the path towards the Base, then extinguish the roots, seeds, plants and fruits of what remains of the illusory mind. There, at the Base, lies the “inner revolution” (another concept/commonplace saying, worn out and corroded, a term which will have to be changed into “Destroying the Obscurity of the Veils of illusion”).

Thus the Base (yours, but correlated to the entire Universe) dictates the IMMACULATE True Consciousness; Emptied of every object/subject (the One Ring that you are in the border/threshold/infinitesimal); it centers your mind, the intellect, before the Threshold/Tear. And there the infinitesimal lies “before” the Infinite (there is no space/time dimension). This does not mean that it either Began or Ended there (where?). Here You are, “String of the Absolute,” without any Paradise to be invented or constructed. You were already a Jewel of the Absolute; you were already in the Paradise of the Absolute; you were already in NON-Duality; Take back your bodies (both mental and physical) seeker of spiritual realization and proceed with your UN-DEFINED Paradise (how can you define it through subjective words?) among the sentient beings who, whether aware or not, are seeking for what you have found at the Border/Threshold/Tear.
